SUPER FRUIT

AÇAÍ + GUARANÁ

AÇAÍ - SUPER FRUIT

Açaí berries are one of the best sources of antioxidant polyphenols and may contain as much as 10 times more antioxidants than blueberries! Açaí is a food rich in proteins, vegetable fat, vitamins (B1, C and E), minerals, fibre, etc.

The large amount of fat present, corresponds largely to monounsaturated fats (60%) and polyunsaturated fats (13%), which help reduce bad cholesterol (LDL) and improve HDL (good cholesterol).

But an important property of this fruit is its colour, more precisely the pigmentation that gives that dark colour to açaí. The anthocyanins present in the rind are antioxidant substances responsible for neutralising oxidation on the outside of the cells, they act directly on the free radicals.

Consuming açaí you still strengthens bones and cartilage, aids in memory functions, replacement prevention of cardiovascular diseases and intestinal transit. And all this is due to the presence of the minerals Calcium and Iron in the composition.

GUARANÁ

Guaraná, a plant originally from the Amazon region. Guaraná is one of the richest plants in caffeine, representing about 3 to 6% of the weight of the fruit, more than the double in comparison with grains of coffee, that present from 1 to 2%. For this reason, Guaraná is known for its stimulant properties, such as reducing fatigue, increasing agility, and as an ergogenic aid in sports activities.

The Guaraná extract presents in its composition the methyl-xanthine radicals, such as caffeine, theobromine and theophylline, besides containing tannins, saponins, catechins, epicatechin, proanthocyanidins, among other components in lower concentration.
